Here are all the new things to do in the Hamptons this summer

Snag a seat at these new restaurants, hotels and spas.

Summer officially starts on Friday, May 23 (or let's be real, Thursday, May 22), with Memorial Day Weekend hitting early this year, giving us a whole extra weekend to relish our escape from the city. We'll need it because there are plenty of new restaurants and hotels to explore out east this summer.

As you return to old favorites, you may notice a few tweaks and improvements: Montauk Brewing Company now has two outdoor TVs so you don't have to miss the big game while sipping a Wavechaser IPA; Amber Waves Farm added long tables and Wi-Fi for WFH vibes with a wake-up wrap and coffee; John Cameron Mitchell is grand marshal at this year's Pride Parade; and there are plenty of new additions from Southampton to Springs to keep you intrigued.

From Manhattan-based favorites making their seasonal Long Island extension to renovated and brand-new spaces, here's everything new in The Hamptons that you'll want to check out this summer.

The Clam Bar's Shuck Truck

Open for its 44th season, The Clam Bar at Napeague is now also available on the go for private events. Often seen parked outside the seafood shack, the retro refurbished 1966 Citroen H Van is now a traveling, bookable seafood bar.
